FARM AND STATION.

A VETERINARY COLLEGE.

A GOOD MOVE.

The announcement Mr. Carruthers made the other day before the Stockowners' Association that the Government intended to establish a veterinary college in association with the University has been received with much satisfaction. Both the Stockowners' Association and the Pastoral Protection Board Council of Advice have expressed themselves in favour of a local laboratory of veterinary pathology and bacteriology, and with the Ministry and those interested in stock working together the endowment of the college should present no great difficulties. The necessity for such a step is very urgent. Victoria has recently made a move in this direction by establishing a veterinary chair at the Melbourne University. At the present time the world's best veterinary surgeon in this country has no option but to proceed abroad for his training. Every year the Australian field for veterinary work is becoming broader. We have a rapid multiplication going on of valuable stock, and all demand for development and improvement from a trade, develops inspection by veterinary officers becomes more marked. And as legislation is pushed further against virulent diseases there will be more demand in that direction for the accomplished vet. We have not in this country so great an opening for young vets as the Imperial army presents to British graduates, and the scope will always be increasing. Although this is perhaps the healthiest stock country in the world, there will be plenty of room for the services of good men.

Considerable speculation has taken place as to the basis of the proposed college. Several members of the University Senate are known to be favourable to its establishment, and some little fear exists in the minds of the colleagues of a comparatively academic character that it would be founded. And this does appear a vital point in the movement. Without doubt the college will gain much both in assistance and in prestige if associated with our University, but still care must be taken that it is before all else a practical veterinary school which will turn out men with degrees as equal status to those of the Imperial army presents to British graduates, and the scope will always be increasing. Although this is perhaps the healthiest stock country in the world, there will be plenty of room for the services of good men.

The status of the stockowners' association, the Royal Agricultural Society, and kindred bodies in the country, the New South Wales Sheep Breeders' Association, the Farmers and Settlers' Association, the A.C.I., and others, should send delegates. Such a meeting should be called to draft a plan for an ideal Australian veterinary college, holding the balance fairly between the purely academic side and the stockowners'. The status of the college would be of first importance. Obviously stockowners would expect that the college as founded would be on the same independent basis as any other Faculty of the University. Without doubt much assistance could be obtained from the various curricula now being, but care should be taken that the new Chair is not a poor relation to the ruling Faculty of Medicine. That is the only risk involved in associating with the University. Until recently, when the University at Edinburgh took over the Edinburgh Veterinary College, and decided upon the issue of degrees, Bachelor of Veterinary Science, all of the British colleges of note appear to have been independent. Apparently the Edinburgh control has decided to in no way destroy or subordinate the individuality of the Dick institution, and this might fairly be taken as precedent for our case.

Provided that the University of Sydney decides on giving the high individual status to the Veterinary College, the appointment of a Veterinary Dean would be essential. This would raise the question of obtaining a suitable man, and the hope might be expressed that if Australia contained one, the necessary qualifications for the appointment will be a local one. That, however, is a matter for subsequent decision. The chief aim should be moving towards the endowment of this college to receive the support of all interested in stock-breeding. Presumably the course would be the customary three years, which is the recommended one; and if the same question about the high standard and individuality of the institution, graduates should had a ready acceptance of their service. A proposal which is likely to have many supporters is that the veterinary college should provide diplomas on completion for students, stockmen, game, and others, who may have had either the time nor the inclination to undertake a full course.

ITEMS.

Reports now being received show how seriously the lambing has been affected by the dry season. On many runs the lambs were destroyed as they were dropped in order to save the ewes, and on many others a state of contage was extremely low. One station reported that their state of that of 10,000 ewes he lost 3000, and has only about 300 lambs alive. This is doubtless an extremely harsh case, but when the figures for the year are published the increase in our flock is likely to be disappointing.

South Australian farmers are sorely pressed for land. They are to be freely met in this State and Queensland in quest of fresh areas, and in their own State they are making plucky experiments with hungry country, which until now has been passed over carelessly. A large tract known as the Gumeruru-Burra, containing nearly 100,000 acres, covered with dry, saline, and brown, is now receiving attention. Tractor engines have been getting to work breaking down the scrub, and it is hoped that by the use of fertilisers the country will produce paying crops. In this sort of wild country a state of prosperity, however, probably costs more than to purchase good land in New South Wales. It is the story of the Victorian mallee over again—big risks for indifferent prospects.

FLOUR FOR EXHIBITION IN ENGLAND.

The Minister for Mines and Agriculture is in receipt of a letter from Mr. T. A. Coghlan, the Agent-General for this State in London, in which he states that he has sent a sample of flour for exhibition at the Royal Horticultural Society's Show, to be held at the West of England Bakers' Contractors' Firms, and Manufacturers' Association, Liverpool, on November 5 to 27 next. This exhibition will be largely attended by those interested in the flour and bread trade, and it is expected that our exporters will send small lots of their produce for exhibition at this show. It will be an excellent opportunity bringing New South Wales flour into further prominence.

OVERSEA FREIGHTS

The committee appointed by the conference of delegates held on Tuesday from the various co-operative butter factories of New South Wales met last Saturday at the Coastal Farmers' Co-operative Society, Sussex-street. The various clauses of the contract were soon agreed upon. The chief business of the meeting was the appointing of representatives to confer with the Victorian shippers. Mr. J. H. Thorsby (manager of the Berriwa District F. & D. Company, Limited), and Mr. W. Brookes (agent of the Butter Company) should go to Melbourne for the purpose of conferring with the Victorian representatives on Friday next.

Most of the delegations were leaving to-morrow, and it was decided in the event of some arrangements being made with the five lines with regard to the reduction of freight charges, to remain in Sydney to form part of the export committee covering all sections of the export trade. The co-operative membership on that body was to consist of Messrs. Meares and Thrush as representing co-operative distribution, and Messrs. Brandon (of the North Coast Factory) and L. Crawford (manager of the North Coast Factory).

With regard to the representative nature of Tuesday's conference it was carefully and accurately calculated that the total buttermilk produced in New South Wales was equivalent to 12,234 tons per annum. Of course this does not mean the butter exported.

AUSTRALIAN TREES.

IMPORTANT TO PASTORALISTS.

With an illustration of the Kurrajong.

(By FRED. TURNER, F.L.S.)

Many trees of economic value and of great importance to the pastoral industry, inasmuch as their leaves provide good feed for stock, grow in more or less abundant over immense tracts of country in the drouthy inland. In addition to producing feed for the animals they provide them with grateful shade from the fierce heat of the sun in summer. Moreover, this arboreal vegetation when fairly plentiful mitigates the scourching effects of hot winds on the more tender herbage, preserves the surface moisture from two rays evaporation, and in great measure removes wind and dust from the air, thus playing a most important part in the economy of nature. It is, therefore, wise when ringbarking and country order to encourage a better growth of grass and shrubs, especially ornamental trees, as many of these useful trees where they are already growing on partially cut down of valuable fodder trees should be discontinued, for every specimen so treated is lost forever. Those that provide good feed for grazing animals should be retained, and given a few extra sprouts, very ornamental appearance. Its leaves are variable, but mostly lance-shaped, and about two inches long. During the winter months the foliage is much cut down for stock, sheep being particularly fond of its leaves, and thriving on them. These animals, however, when eaten in excessive quantities, sometimes form diarrhoea, and are liable to become infested with intestinal worms. The "leopard" tree is well worth replanting on those areas from which it is disappeared, and some of them in the natural state are quite as ornamental as ever. Then, too, the "leopard" tree is well worth propagating. Under ordinary conditions it produces plenty of seed, which, when ripe, germinates readily, and the seedlings are a great asset to the stockman. The "leopard" tree is well worth propagating this tree. Amongst its other economic uses, it is a valuable timber of a bright yellow colour, nicely marked, of the grain, and exceedingly tough and pliable.

FREIGHT ON MANURES.

Thought the freights on manures carried on the New South Wales railways are lower than similar freights imposed in the other States, it has not been decided to make further important concession to farmers. Further, the charge was 10s per ton for 350 miles and 10s per ton for 500 miles, and in certain cases two lots. In the instance of the Farmers' and Settlers' Conference the Commissioners have now decided to reduce the minimum freight from two lots to one lot, so that persons who have small quantities of manure may have the full advantage of the low rates.

RENTS FOR HOLDINGS.

BRISBANE.—The Charleville Land Court concluded its sittings to-day, and fixed the following rents for the first period for the land mentioned:—Manor, present rents £10s per acre, new rents £10s per acre; 1½ acres, 1s 3d to 17s; 10s to 1s 6d; Cunningham, South, 1s 6d to 1s 6d; 1½ acres, 1s 6d to 1s 6d; 1½ acres, 1s 6d to 1s 6d; 1½ acres, 1s 6d to 1s 6d; Bulgoon, 1s 6d to 1s 6d; Maroo, 1s 6d to 1s 6d; Thunda, 1s 6d to 1s 6d; Hammond, Bowen, 1s 6d to 1s 6d; Retreat, 1s 6d to 1s 6d; 1½ acres, 1s 6d to 1s 6d; dock, 1s 6d; Mount Margaret, 8s to 9s per acre; Keerengooloo, 1s 6d. Rents cover the whole areas.

CROWN LANDS AND RABBITS.

Mr. A. H. Wright, Tombong, writes:—I am very pleased to see by your issue of the "Herald" that you have taken up the matter of the "leopard" tree as a fodder tree. I am quite sure that it is the most valuable, and is found growing over immense tracts of country inland, and, although fairly plentiful in some districts, is not so abundant as in others; it is becoming scarce in many places. This tree grows from 30 to 40 feet high, or more, and its foliage is very ornamental. Its leaves are variable, but mostly lance-shaped, and about two inches long. During the winter months the foliage is much cut down for stock, sheep being particularly fond of its leaves, and thriving on them. These animals, however, when eaten in excessive quantities, sometimes form diarrhoea, and are liable to become infested with intestinal worms. The "leopard" tree is well worth replanting on those areas from which it is disappeared, and some of them in the natural state are quite as ornamental as ever. Then, too, the "leopard" tree is well worth propagating. Under ordinary conditions it produces plenty of seed, which, when ripe, germinates readily, and the seedlings are a great asset to the stockman. The "leopard" tree is well worth propagating this tree. Amongst its other economic uses, it is a valuable timber of a bright yellow colour, nicely marked, of the grain, and exceedingly tough and pliable.

CONCESSION TO FARMERS.

Under existing arrangements, persons consigning three trucks of cattle by rail are allowed one ticket free of cost for attending the stock and driving the cattle. The Farmers and Settlers' Conference recently discussed the matter, and as a result the railway commissioners were asked to extend the concession to two or two and a half trucks of stock. The commissioners were unable to grant the request, and it was pointed out that such a concession would be a great boon to stockmen from the northern districts of the State. The inspectors reported that the most unjust and useless. Men are being persecuted for not destroying rabbits, and the Crown lands adjoining them are stocked up again as fast as they destroy them.

STOCK BOARDS.

QUEANBEYAN.—At a meeting of the officers of the Stock Board held on Tuesday, the secretary's financial statement was discussed, and a balance of £1,200. The estimate for the current year showed the probable expenditure to be £100, and the probable revenue an amount shown for the year to the extent of £1,200, while the increase in cattle amounted to 235. The following rents were agreed to:—1s 6d per acre, 1s 6d per head, and 1s 6d per lot. The bonuses for native dogs were fixed at £1, and for foxes at 2s. The inspectors reported that the year had been considerably lessened. With few exceptions, trees that yield good feed for stock will not withstand severe cutting, therefore the best method of dealing with them is to induce new growth, which will be available for future contingencies. Besides being of great importance as a pasture country, the "leopard" tree is also useful for timber. When allowed to grow undisturbed for a time it produces an abundance of seeds, which retain their vitality for many years, and sometimes are found in the ground for 100 years before they germinate. This useful tree is

DISTRICT ITEMS.

ALBURY.—At a meeting of New South Wales landowners held at Tintaldra, Upper Murray, the following rents were agreed:—That the following rents of 6d per acre on C.P. and 1s 6d per acre on the freehold be signed and given to the New South Wales Government by the New South Wales landowners who have been headed on the Government undertaking to construct a railway line to Jingellic within four years.

CERSENOCK.

—Horses that were worth £100 in 18 months or 18 months ago will now bring double that amount.

KIAMA.—At the annual general meeting of the Kiama Stockmen's Association, which was adopted at the meeting on Tuesday members were congratulated on the improved condition of the mill trout, an improvement being noted in the interest between the association and the Fresh Food and Ice Company to pay suppliers for the supply of live trout.

—The inspection report for the year showed a debt balance of £1,000, and the amount of £100 was paid to the stockmen.

—The "leopard" tree is well worth propagating.
